

INSTANTLY KILLED BY A PAN HANDLE TRAIN

Was Mrs. Nicholas C. Brown at Union Station this Morning---Was Coming to Newark

Driving in a Top Buggy Loaded With Farm Produce When Struck by Morning Passenger Train--- Body Was Brought to City.

Traveling the road she had traveled hundreds of times from her home to Union Station, six miles west of Newark, Mrs. Nicholas C. Brown, about 60 years of age, wife of Nicholas Brown, one of the best known farmers in Licking county, and a former infirmity director, was struck by Pan Handle passenger train No. 10 about 8:15 o'clock this morning and instantly killed. The horse she was driving was hurled 300 yards and killed, being stripped of every piece of harness. The runnings gear of the top buggy was also thrown over 100 feet.

Her son-in-law, Presley Grove, was working in a field near the railroad and saw the terrible accident. Boarding the train, which was instantly stopped, he helped lift the body on the train and it was brought to this city, where it was turned over to Bowers & McCament to prepare for burial.

Arising early this morning, Mrs. Brown collected eggs and other country produce for market, and climbing into the buggy started for Newark, and had only driven the half mile from her home when she tried to cross the track from the north and was struck by the train in charge of Engineer Charles McCormick and Conductor Daniel Brown. Mr. C. D. Koos, an old friend of the family, was on the train and came to Newark with Mr. Grove to make the necessary funeral arrangements.

The place where the road crosses the track is known as "Dead Man's Crossing," and just how the accident happened will never be known, for there is nothing at this point to obscure the view of any one driving across the track. Mrs. Brown was terribly cut about the head and upper portion of the body, death being instantaneous.

Besides her husband, who is a well known pension attorney at Union Station, six children survive. They are Nicholas C. Brown, Jr., at home; Rev. Arthur Brown, Cleveland; James Brown of Columbus; Mrs. Presley Grove and Mrs. Carl Foster at home, and Mrs. Dr. Larimore of Fort Washington.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed and will be announced later.

BUTCHERY OF LUNATICS OCCURRING IN PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Portugal, Sept. 11.—With 12,000 lunatics, many of them of marked homicidal tendencies, wandering through the rural sections of Portugal, and with no protection against their depredations, bands of citizens are now engaged in one of the most brutal and revolting crusades ever known in a civilized country, the shooting down of lunatics like wolves.

Orders have been sent out from Lisbon to stop the slaughter immediately, but the situation is so desperate that local authorities are disregarding their instructions and the butchery continues. There are 14,000 maniacs in Portugal, a larger proportion than is found in any other country, yet there are no asylums for their care except those supported by voluntary contributions.

CLOSELY GUARDED FROM ALLEGED JAPANESE SPIES

Boston, Sept. 11.—Double guards are on duty today at the Charleston navy yards here and every visitor is being subjected to the greatest scrutiny as a result of the recent visits of Japanese spies, who are said to be fed by a beautiful English woman in a daring attempt to learn the secret of the new Davis torpedo, recent successful tests of which caused a sensation in naval circles and broke the projectile corner up to that time maintained by the Japanese.

SOLDIER STABBED

COMRADES ON WAY TO NATIONAL ENCAMPMENT INVOLVED IN QUARREL

One Seizes Bayonet and Runs It Into Leg of Will Fowler of Wellsburg, West Virginia.

Will Fowler, 25, a private of Co. C, Fifth regiment, West Virginia National Guards, was perhaps fatally stabbed with a bayonet in a quarrel with a fellow soldier while en route from Wellsburg, W. Va., to the National Guard encampment at Camp Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind.

The quarrel, which may result in Fowler's death, started shortly after the special train carrying the soldiers has passed through Zanesville. Fowler, who is now at the Newark Sanitarium, is conscious only part of the time, loss of blood having left him in a semi-conscious condition. Only a few times since being brought to the hospital has Fowler conversed with anyone intelligently and on those occasions he has been reticent about the trouble. The special train bearing about 1000 soldiers to the national encampment was in two sections, the second section, on which the trouble took place, arriving in Newark about 10:10. This train was in charge of Conductor Dan Carroll.

There appeared to be some evidence Thursday night that the men had been drinking when the quarrel started. A scuffle ensued and Fowler's assailant, whose name was not learned here, ran him through with a bayonet. The instrument passed entirely through the flesh and muscles of the right leg just above the knee and the wound bled profusely. The captain of the company placed the assailant under arrest and his case will probably be tried by court martial as soon as the condition of Fowler can be determined.

The injured man was removed from the train as soon as it arrived here, and was rushed to the Sanitarium in Chiss Bros. & Jones' ambulance. Drs. D. M. Smith and Carl Evans attended him.

Owing to Fowler's weakened condition, and his reticence with regard to the assault, and also to the fact that all who knew of the affair went on to Indianapolis on the train, it is impossible to gain any definite information as to the nature of the trouble. Fowler is understood to be single but has parents living in Wellsburg. Attendants at the Sanitarium, as well as the physicians in attendance, are unable at this time to say anything about the probable outcome of the man's injury. Friday afternoon at a late hour he was reported resting a little more comfortably than earlier in the day.

GOV. CUMMINS WHO FIGURES IN IOWA DEADLOCK

By deadlocking both houses of the legislature the Iowa standpatters believe they have accomplished the defeat of Governor A. B. Cummins for election to the short term in the United States senate. Governor Cummins' total strength in the early balloting was sixty-five votes, while seventy-six ballots are necessary to a choice. Claude Porter polled the Democratic strength, and the votes of the tariff advocates were scattered.

CHAS. E. DAVIS

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF MURDERING DR. FRED. RUSTIN IN OMAHA.

Was Released on $7,000 Bail Furnished by a Wealthy Banker Brother.

Omaha, Sept. 11.—Chas. E. Davis was arrested today on the charge of murder in first degree in connection with the killing of Dr. Frederick Rustin. The Davis arrest followed an investigation by police and county authorities following the sensational scene in the coroner's court when Mrs.

Rice pointed out Davis as the man Dr. Rustin had said promised to kill him. Immediately after his arrest Davis was arraigned on the charge of first degree murder and pleaded not guilty. He was released on $7,000 bail furnished by his banker brother.

HORSE RUNS INTO CROWD

SPECTATORS AT WHEELING FAIR SURGE ON TRACK TO WITNESS FINISH.

Three Were Injured, Two of Whom May Die.—Police Were Powerless to Hold People Back.

Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 11.—Three persons were injured, two of them possibly fatally, at the state fair grounds last evening when the spectators crowded upon the race track and were run into by one of the contesting horses.

The injured are: Eugene Keyser, Wheeling; struck in breast by horse; will probably die. Frank Johns, Wellsburg, O., upon whom the horse fell; internal injuries; condition critical.

W. L. Rhoades of Gaittensburg, N. J., driver of the horse; thrown to the track; hip and shoulder injured; will recover.

Scores of persons had narrow escapes in a stampede following the accident.

The crowd, estimated at 35,000, in their excitement to see the finish of the 2.16 trot, made a rush for the track and the police and fair officials were powerless in their efforts to keep the people back.

The horse, Margate, was nearing the wire at full speed, when he ran into two of the spectators, throwing Rhoades from his sulky and starting a panic in the vast crowd.

SCOTT

Aged Embezzler of Athens County Back at Pen

AFTER SHORT RESPITE

Parole Revoked by Board of Managers at Secret Session

Prosecutor Who Caused Indictments to be Quashed is Object of Hot Fire.

Columbus, O., Sept. 11.—Because of the indignation of the citizens of Athens county, Winfield Scott, former deputy county auditor, sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for seven years for embezzlement of public funds amounting to $78,000, paroled at the last meeting of the board of managers after he had served just two years, was returned to the prison last night.

The board of managers after a secret session, revoked the parole and dispatched two guards to the home of Scott, north of this city, who notified him of the action of the board and again placed their quarry behind the walls.

Stacks of protests from Athenians, when it was known that Scott had been given a ticket of leave, caused the members of the board of managers to take up the matter and quickly change their minds.

There is a deep mystery behind the revolution. The managers declare they were regular in granting the parole at the last meeting, as no one appeared before them to protest, although Scott had published his application, in accordance with the laws, in the papers of Athens county.

Besides this I. M. Foster, prosecuting attorney of Athens county, according to John H. Rorick, a member of the board, signed a blank, sent out from the penitentiary, stating that there were no indictments pending against Scott.

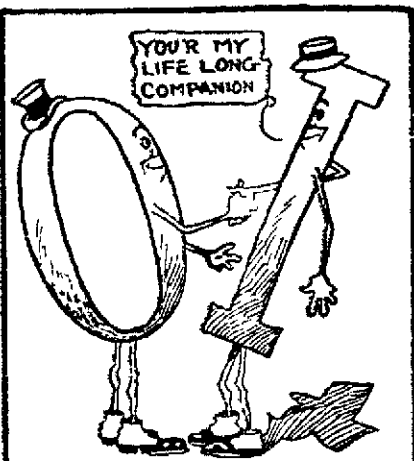

It developed at the meeting that five indictments against the aged embezzler had been quashed recently at the request of the prosecuting attorney.

Foster, in explaining, stated to the board that he had the indictments quashed because certain friends of Scott represented to him that it was their intention to apply for a holiday pardon for Scott, and failing in this, subsequently would make application for a parole.

Both Prosecuting Attorney Foster, who came voluntarily, and Judge Wood, of the Common Pleas court of Athens county at the solicitation of the board, appeared at the meeting yesterday afternoon. According to a member of the board, Foster declared that he did not know that an effort was being made to secure a pardon for Scott, as also did Judge Wood, both saying they had been led to believe that it was the intention of Scott's friends to seek a pardon from Governor Harris. Scott presented many letters from prominent citizens of Athens county recommending his parole.

Scott was deputy auditor of Athens county for a dozen years after which he came to this city to live. He purchased a palatial residence, and (Continued on Page 5, 3d Col.)

HON. W. J. BRYAN PASSED THROUGH NEWARK TODAY

Democracy's matchless leader, William Jennings Bryan, was in Newark for five minutes Friday morning. Although it was not known that Mr. Bryan would pass through until about thirty minutes before the arrival of his train, east bound Pennsylvania passenger, No. 18, due here at 9:45, close to the rail of the platform and said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen—I'm glad to be able to speak to you it only for a few minutes. I can say that with a glance at the platforms of the two parties, you can plainly see which one is the most concise in its declaration

Democratic presidential candidate who passed through this city Friday morning, addressing a large crowd at the Pennsylvania depot in a five-minute speech.

There was a crowd of over a thousand enthusiasts gathered at the station ready to make a rush for the rear of the train when it came to a stop.

Most of the crowd congregated about the platforms at the Pennsylvania station and when the train, pulled by two engines, came to a stop with the rear coach a hundred feet west of South Third street, the throng made one big rush to get a look at Mr. Bryan.

It was a wonder that many people were not trampled by the eager crowd as they surged toward the Democratic presidential candidate's car, Olivette. Crowds lined the tracks on both sides, while cars standing on nearby sidings were packed with scrambling, curious ones.

A number of gentlemen were on the platform of the car when the train stopped but a slight wave of disappointment passed over the crowd for a minute until the door opened and amid shouts of, "There he is," "Bryan," "Hurrah for the next president," and numerous such greetings accompanied by yelling, clapping of hands and waving hats, Mr. Bryan, attired in a traveling suit and a light gray campaign hat, stepped out and bowed his greetings to the crowd.

Everybody then started a scramble for a hand shake, and Mr. Bryan spent half his stay here shaking hands with eager admirers. It was fully two minutes before the calls for a speech began to come. Mr. Bryan smilingly declined, saying that he would tell them all about it in Columbus on the 23d of this month, but that did not satisfy the crowd.

Mayor Altherton was introduced to Mr. Bryan and when the Democratic leader heard the name of the city mentioned, he said:

"Oh yes, this is Newark, Licking county. I guess this is one of Ohio's best Democratic counties, isn't it? What's the majority now?"

But cries for a speech drowned any answer to Mr. Bryan's question, so, with his hat in his hand, he stepped stamp so violently as almost to drown the speaker's words.

The governor's speech was almost entirely devoted to the defense of his own administration.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—That William J. Bryan and William H. Taft will both be in Chicago October 1 and will speak from the same platform, was assured today when Chairman Mack of the Democratic national committee announced that Bryan had accepted the invitation of the Chicago Association of Commerce to open the deep waterways convention that day.

Judge Taft accepted the association's invitation by long distance telephone Wednesday night. The two will also meet at the banquet the same evening.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—That William J. Bryan and William H. Taft will both be in Chicago October 1 and will speak from the same platform, was assured today when Chairman Mack of the Democratic national committee announced that Bryan had accepted the invitation of the Chicago Association of Commerce to open the deep waterways convention that day.

RECORD

Broken by Wright. Aeroplane at Fort Myer

TEN MILE WIND BLOWING

Machine Circles Over Grounds for 65 Minutes, 52 Seconds

If 42 Miles Per Hour is Made in Test Before Army Board Aviator Will Receive Big Bonus.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Orville Wright Thursday broke the world's record for time and distance for a heavier than air flying machine which he established Wednesday. In a flight requiring great skill on account of a ten mile wind, he circled around the drill grounds at Fort Myer fifty-eight times in sixty-five minutes and 52 seconds, exceeding the time of Wednesday's record flight by three minutes and 37 seconds. The flight was witnessed by nearly a thousand people.

Throughout the day the weather was threatening and Mr. Wright did not arrive at the field until after 4 o'clock.

The wind was blowing only about three miles an hour when Mr. Wright prepared to make his flight.

At 5:08 Mr. Wright signaled C. E. Taylor, his mechanic to release the machine. The aeroplane rose from the ground almost immediately after leaving the single starting rail. It continued to climb higher with each successive round of the field until it reached an altitude of 75 feet. For the first thirty rounds the machine flew as smoothly as on its previous flights, but from that time on, it was seen to pitch at the turns, as the breeze from the west struck it.

Whenever the machine pitched, it could be plainly seen from below that it responded promptly to every move of the levers by the operator.

A gust of wind, unusually strong, struck the aerial flyer during the forty-second round, and it plunged sharply, causing the crowd to exclaim in alarm. Mr. Wright then brought his machine lower, but on the fifty-third round he had reached an altitude of 200 feet.

When Mr. Wright completed the fifty-fourth round he had beaten his record of Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Wright came down at the northern end of the field at the end of the fifty-eighth round, landing easily. The cavalry squadron, on duty to protect the machine, formed a cordon around it, and Major Squier, acting chief signal officer pressed forward to congratulate the aviator.

Signal corps officers at the war department expressed the belief that Orville Wright will make a speed of at least 42 miles an hour with his heavier than air machine. This is based on their observation of Mr. Wright's record-breaking experiment yesterday. If he does make 42 miles an hour, he will be entitled to a bonus of 20 per cent over the contract price, which would net him for his machine $30,000, the contract price being $25,000.

The official trial will be held as soon as Mr. Wright announces his readiness. He will probably make preliminary flights for a week or more before he tests the aeroplane before the army board.

WANTS TO DIE

James A. Lingafelter Informs Guard That He is Tired of Life if He Cannot Obtain Release.

Columbus, Sept. 11.—Afraid that no stop can be taken looking to his release from the penitentiary, James A. Lingafelter, the Newark banker, now doing four years for embezzlement, told his guard in the institution's hospital Thursday morning that he wanted to die.

"There is no use of my living if I have to stay in this place," Lingafelter said. Many unsuccessful steps have been taken to secure Lingafelter's release from the institution where he is said to be suffering from paralysis of the bowels.

SUCCESSFUL
CONVENTION

Of Zanesville District Closed in This City Thursday Evening—Officers Elected.

The 28th annual convention of the Zanesville District Women's Foreign Missionary society closed with an impressive program Thursday evening, and was pronounced one of the most successful and interesting in the history of the organization. There were in attendance 80 delegates and about fifty additional visitors.

The morning program was observed as announced in Wednesday's Advocate. The feature of the afternoon session was the "Bulletin From the Zanesville District," by the Rev. Mr.
McElfresh. The address was a clear, complete review of the work and contained many timely suggestions. The chief thought of the address was the general progress of the gospel.

The evening program consisted of recitations and songs and an address by Mrs. L. L. Fisher of Cleveland, branch superintendent of children's work.

The following officers were chosen:
Mrs. O. N. Townsend, Zanesville, president; Miss Kate Frazier, Nashport, first vice president; Miss Kate Clark,
Zanesville, second vice president;
Mrs. Minnie Craig, Zanesville, third vice president; Mrs. M. P. Adams, Zanesville, corresponding secretary;
Mrs. Frank Agnew, Newark, recording secretary; Mrs. I. M. Phillips, Newark, treasurer; Mrs. Chris. Lady, Zanesville, secretary of young people's work.

The resolutions adopted at the evening session of the convention extended hearty thanks and appreciation of the entertainment offered the delegates while in the city.

A pleasant feature of the entertainment was the delightful lunch served in the church parlors at noon by the local church women.

WEDDINGS

FUNK-WOLFE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.
W. Wolfe in Johnstown, this county, on Wednesday afternoon, September 5, when their daughter, Harriet Jane was married to Mr. Cecil N. Funk, of Riverside, Cal. They were married in the presence of the near relatives of the bride, the Rev. Mr. Funk, of Dayton, an uncle of the groom, performing the ceremony. The bride is a highly respected young woman and a graduate of the Johnstown public schools. She served as teacher in the Johnstown schools several years ago, and her work in this capacity was like the life she lived among her friends, satisfactory to all.

The groom, Mr. Funk, is a prominent fruit grower at Riverside, Cal., and is the owner of several large orange groves. He is a polished gentleman, and esteemed by all who know him.

After the marriage ceremony, congratulations and a sumptuous supper,
the happy couple left for Columbus, Cleveland and Niagara Falls. The will return in about a week and will remain in Johnstown a few days before leaving for their future home in Riverside, Cal.

Those present at the wedding were
Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Wright, S. S.
Wright, Mrs. Herbert Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Seesholtz and son, Lewis and Mrs. Fred Simpson of Johnstown, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Wright of Columbus; O. S. Busby and wife of Mt.
Gilead; Dr. J. N. Wright and wife and daughters, Gladys and Edna, and son Ludlow, and Mr. and Mrs. H. A.
Wolfe of Newark.

DR. SUZZELLO'S INSTITUTE WORK
WAS APPRECIATED

One of the Foremost Lecturers on Sociological Problems, an Able Thinker, Fine Instructor.

It is a cause of deep regret that Dr.
Suzzello's work in Newark ended with his Thursday afternoon lecture. He is universally conceded to be one of the ablest thinkers and finest instructors who has ever appeared here in Newark, and his work, which has been infinite, is carried on by the most vigorous and forceful means. With which he has approached the vast questions of our modern day thought. While his position as one of the foremost lecturers of the country makes further praise of his work almost superfluous, it seems fitting that recognition be made of the wonderful stimulus which he has given to thought and education of the sociological problems whose importance is coming to be widely recognized. The only regret is that Dr. Suzzello's work has been so limited an audience of the teachers, instead of before the large body of Newark citizens who would have appreciated what he had to offer.

In avoiding the ditch the car ran into another excavation extending the entire distance across the street. The front wheels passed over the opening but the rear of the car was caught and fell into the opening up to the body of the auto. The occupants of the car were badly jolted by the sudden stop and some parts of the machine were sprung. It took several men some time to get the auto out.

THE OBJECT LESSON OF BANK FAILURES

Hardly a section of the state has escaped the blight of bank disaster at some time. In fact few counties in Ohio are exempt from live and personal interest in the issue of guaranteed bank deposits because of some local misfortune. A bank failure in one county is felt in adjoining counties, and causes apprehension among bankers as well as depositors lest fear become infectious, spread to banks that are healthy enough for fair weather and carry them down too in a maelstrom of adversity.

In Clinton county they still feel the blow of the Blanchester bank failure. Crawford county still remembers the Galion bank disaster. Huron county needs no additional object lesson. Newark has been through the mill. Wayne county still discusses the collapse of the Wooster bank. The Dresden bank failure is another object lesson. The cashier of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank at Cleveland was arrested but that did not reimburse the 2,800 depositors for their aggregate loss of $415,000.

A receiver is still in charge of the Sessions bank at Columbus which was forced into liquidation by the shrinkage in value of some of the securities it carried, and through no dishonesty on the part of the managers of the bank. It was a state bank, but the receiver's fees would have been more than the tax required of the bank to have guaranteed deposits under such a law as Oklahoma has.

Columbus has had other bank failures in the past two years that failed to pay out in full.

And so the list might be extended until the whole state is covered, but these examples are sufficient. Dishonest bankers may be sent to "banker's row" but that does not reimburse the confiding depositors nor the innocent stockholders who are made to suffer. But this is enough to show whether Taft is on the right side in opposing the bank guaranty plank of the Denver platform, which sets forth one of the policies advocated for years by William J. Bryan. It is one of Mr. Bryan's policies Teddy didn't try to steal.

As to the publicity of campaign contributions, Mr. Bryan has well shown that a difference as wide as the p's exists between a pledge to require such publicity before election, and one to ensure it afterwards. The one is an attempt at real reform; the other an unwilling makeshift to avert party revolt. Bryan and the Democratic party are working to effect a real reform.

The election of senators by the people, and the change in the house rules so as to restore representative government, are things that Mr. Bryan shows that the Democratic party and its nominee stands for. And he pledges himself, if elected, to convene congress, the lower house of which will be elected with his, and urge

A BIG MAN FOR GOVERNOR

(Columbus Commonweal.)

A critical period is upon us in the State of Ohio. Grave questions are under consideration; important problems are to be solved—must be solved, if Ohio is to maintain her position in the front rank of the great commonwealths which compose the Union.

Whether the people of Ohio accept or reject the proposed amendment to the Constitution upon the subject of taxation, there is sure to be a strong movement at the next session of the legislature to modify the tax laws, in the interest of justice and equality.

At the last session all important tax measures were postponed until the people should say whether the new laws should be framed in accordance with the present constitutional limitations or in harmony with a new provision.

The question can no longer be delayed; some attempt must be made to relieve the taxpayers from the evils and hardships of the present system.

It is already apparent that the next General Assembly will contain many new members, some of whom will be quite unfamiliar with legislative processes; and it is very probable that legislative experiments will be numerous.

Other important questions in addition to taxation will be up for consideration, perhaps for action, such as the regulation of corporations and reform in legal procedure. The temptation to copy literally the reform legislation of other states is very strong, whether the new laws have been proved and tested by experience or not.

At such a time it is important that the people be represented by a strong, able, conscientious and fearless man. In the making of the laws, each county and each senatorial district is represented in the legislature by one or more men chosen by the voters of the county or district. The only person who is chosen by the people, of the state at large to participate in the making of laws, and who represents and is responsible to the whole people of the state, is the governor.

Charged with the duty of advising the General Assembly and entrusted with the veto power, the governor is a tremendous influence in state affairs, which he should be as the representative of the whole people.

It is neither the duty nor the right of the chief executive to force the lawmakers to do his will, but it is both his right and his duty to exercise the moral influence of his position for the enactment of proper laws and to prevent the enactment of improper ones.

It is evident that the people and the people's interests should be represented by the ablest talent in the state. The governor should be a man physically, mentally and morally able and equipped to meet every emergency which may arise, able to meet on even terms the ablest representative of any special interest, able to master any legislative problem, fearless to move against the highest lawbreaker, and quick to protect the lowliest citizen.

Time has been when governors of Ohio were dominated by party bosses, but the people of Ohio are no longer willing to have their governor dictated to by the representatives of any interest. He must be big enough in point of ability, experience and character and by virtue of his position as representative of a great people to resist and repulse any attempt to control him. The governor of Ohio must be a real governor, armed and equipped at all points; he should be big enough to be president. If he is big enough to be president he will be big enough to be the kind of a governor Ohio needs; if he is not big enough to be president, there is serious doubt of his fitness to be governor of Ohio. Ohio needs and wants the biggest and best.

ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS BY TEACHERS

Interesting Sessions Held and Number of Addresses Made—Institute Closes Today.

Miss Newlin opened the afternoon's work with a Round Table, by means of which discussion was opened on specific subject, pertaining to her phase of work, which might be suggested by her audience.

The first question propounded by Sup't. Simkins, asked whether Miss Newlin would apply to a class of beginners, the methods suggested in her illustrative work. This question opened a new discussion of the value of experience, Miss Newlin urging that the best psychological results are always best attained by beginning not with the written page, but with some living experience that the child has had. She again spoke of the infinite value of accuracy and clear thinking, particularly in the beginning of the child's work. The reading lesson is not so much the gaining, on the child's part, of an elaborate vocabulary, as the ability to distinguish the fine shades of meaning which is the real end of the work. In analysis for the real meaning, great attention must be paid to punctuation, as that is the means by which the author suggests to the reader the exact picture which he wants to paint. Absolutely correct punctuation is an art.

Relieve the tension of the child's mind during the lesson by allowing him the outlet of a true emotion.

Other questions suggested various illustrations from the morning's lesson, and from the field of Miss Newlin's wider experience. She suggested the value of sometimes hurrying on a little in order to get the full sweep of the thought, when at other times a slow and careful analysis of each individual thought would help more efficiently to a complete understanding. Use the means that will do most good, and reach farthest, to the most people. Children can assimilate more from things akin to their experience than from what is strange to them, however fine that may be.

The end of the hour assigned to Miss Newlin forbade the asking of more questions, and cut short what had been a most helpful and interesting hour.

A request having been made for a list of books suitable for beginners in the study of sociology, Dr. Suzzello suggested the several works which he would recommend for such purpose. Giddings' "Elements of Sociology," Blackmar, "Elements of Sociology," Small and Vincent, "Introduction to Sociology," Ross, "Social Control," Ross, "Social Psychology."

For his closing lecture Dr. Suzzello turned from pure sociology to the domain of psychology, considering the specific theme of the control of emotion in the school room. He spoke of the two methods of control—memory, the quick method, and reason, the slow method; laying down the principle that where experiences are to be repeated in an unvarying fashion, memory should be utilized, while changing problems should invoke the aid of reason, to meet future situations. Mere knowledge, imposed upon the brain is a superficial thing, unless it is linked with human impulses—without which it is futile for control of the character.

As old social conditions have passed away, so once valued emotions no longer hold a place in our social regimen, and the more sympathetic qualities mark our present civilization. Love and sympathy is one of the strongest weapons with which we go into life. There are certain other emotions which need to be rightly attached to situations requiring them.

The functions of the social emotions is to make over the world of feeling without you, and the function of the esthetic emotions is to make over the world of feeling within you. There are three ways of deepening the emotions; the exemplary, the intellectual, and the expressive methods of control. If intellectual discipline is always coupled with emotions under proper control you will have given to the world at least one man of action.

The Friday morning session of the Institute was opened by Rev. Mr. Cosgrove of the Second Presbyterian church, who conducted devotional exercises, taking the story of Nicodemus, and with interesting commentaries applying its lesson to the teachers' work. The opening exercises were concluded by a delightful vocal solo by Miss Grace Keenan.

The first lecture of the morning was given by Dr. Minnick, dean of the Ohio State Normal college, Miami university. In his first appearance before the Newark Institute. His subject was "Dramatization," a theme fitting well with the general trend of the week's work. While paying a tribute to the widely prevalent play-system, and to Froebel, its founder, he went on to furnish a broader and more comprehensive definition of education as a means for giving our children more abundant life, a means of preserving and perpetuating and accelerating his joys and ambitions to perpetuity. His distinction between play and dramatization lay in that the former is instructive and reaches backward while the latter is intellectual, and reaches forward. The training of the instincts have very little to do with modern life and we want to rub them out.

The child is a bundle of potentialities, and likes to assert himself; help his development by letting him begin dramatization in his early years, adapting it to the beauty and music and rhythm of childhood.

Miss Newlin, before proceeding with her last lecture, briefly discussed several questions which had been suggested since the close of Thursday's Round Table talk—reiterating her former suggestions as to the needs of thorough previous preparation on the child part.

In entering upon the summing up of her week's teaching, Miss Newlin again insisted that the final and fundamental end of the work in reading be not a mastery of the technique, but an able interpretation of the central idea, through the emotions. Reading is too apt to be slighted through the stress of other "more important" subjects—and so, in the high school, we find almost insurmountable difficulties in the teaching of English. If too much attention be given to technique, we are not apt to properly co-ordinate the symbols with the thinking. It is harder to teach the inner meaning of a thing than to teach the outward symbols.

Teach emotion? Yes; but develop at the same time the power of the will. We have no right to stir the child's emotion, without at the same time giving him a means of legitimate outlet for that emotion by means of action.

CHAS. FORDICE STRICKEN WITH HEART FAILURE

Well Known B. & O. Engineer Succumbs to Attack at His Home in East Newark.

One of the most sudden and deplorable deaths which has occurred in Newark in a long time was that which overtook Mr. Charles L. Fordyce, one of the best known engineers of the B. & O. railroad, at an early hour Friday morning.

Mr. Fordyce had been in poor health ever since last spring up to about a month ago, since which time he has apparently been in good health and has been running his engine. Thursday he made two round trips to Shawnee and Friday morning he was feeling fine and in the best of spirits. About 8.30 o'clock Friday morning he left his home, 526 East Main street, and started over towards the main portion of the city. He stopped in front of William Long's barber shop, on East Main street, to chat with a number of friends, when he was suddenly taken with an attack of heart trouble and fell to the ground. He exclaimed, "Take me home!"

An ambulance was hurriedly called and he was taken to his home where he was attended by Drs. Mitchell and Downs, but notwithstanding all their efforts he expired in a few moments.

Charles L. Fordyce was a son of Samuel and Nancy Fordyce and was born and brought up in Guernsey county. He was about 40 years old. His father died about 23 years ago.

When quite young Charles took service with the B. & O. railroad, some 20 years ago, and for the past 14 years has been employed as an engineer on the road. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and was a man who was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. Besides his mother, with whom he lived, he is survived by one brother, Mr. Harry S. Fordyce, chief dispatcher of the B. & O. railroad, at this point, and three sisters, Mrs. S. N. Hickey and Mrs. Earl Murphy, of this city, and Mrs. R. L. Woolway of Chicago.

At this writing no arrangements have been made for the funeral.

THE PINCHTOWN BOULEVARD.

You've heard of Thomas Toddles, with polished manners and Pinchtown's Mayor, and greatest politician in the land. A year ago he advocated measures that would check all speeding on the main street of the town—this year, by Heck! He has bought an automobile which he keeps in his back yard, and now he wants the town to build a splendid boulevard. It should be twenty miles in length, a fence on either side, all painted white with Spartan Lead. 'Tis thus he'd like to ride. Spartan White Lead will stand all climatic changes and wear better than other leads. It's the best lead made. Manufactured by The Marietta Paint & Color Co., Marietta, Ohio. New Meat Shop Established—Accepts Position in Pennsylvania Normal School.

Granville, Sept. 11.—Another new industry has just been added to the mercantile industries of Granville in the establishment by Mr. George Piper and his son, Archie Piper, of a first-class, up-to-date meat shop. Mr. Piper has been engaged in this business before in Granville, and always succeeded in pleasing the people to a nicety. The new store is located on the site of the old jail on North Prospect. It has been fitted up with the best furniture procurable and is one of the nicest meat stores ever seen in Granville.

Mr. William A. Joy, register of deeds for Benzie county at Frankfort, Mich., made a short visit with his car on Mrs. J. V. Wood, at her home on 1st street. Forty-five years ago Mr. Joy lived in Granville and attended Denison university, but at the breaking out of the civil war he enlisted in the Forty-eighth O. V. I., and at the close of the struggle he removed to Michigan, where he has ever since resided. Many of those he was well acquainted with in the old days, are no more, having died long ago.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Melissa B. Spiger, wife of Samuel Spiger, formerly well known and highly respected residents of Granville, which occurred at her home in Spokane, Washington, on Sunday last. The deceased was aged 63 years and besides the husband, is survived by three daughters and one son, all of whom live in Spokane. They removed from Granville to Spokane last spring.

At the Methodist church Sunday services will be conducted both morning and evening. This is the last Sunday before the annual conference convenes. The pastor expects to start for the conference Tuesday afternoon and there will be no preaching the following Sunday. Sunday morning the subject will be "Transfiguration of Jesus" by the pastor, and in the evening Rev. C. M. Prior will preach.

Class meeting at 9:30 a. m.; Sunday school, 11 a. m.; Junior League, 2.30 p. m.; Epworth League, 6.15 p. m.; prayer meeting, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock.

Mr. E. G. Grandstaff, chief director of the New York Electrical Trade school, and his wife, who have been making quite an extended visit with the parents of Mr. Grandstaff, at their home on College street, left Friday morning for New York. On their way they will visit friends in Cleveland and Rochester.

SCOTT

There were some suspicions that all was not right.

Upon request Auditor of State Guilbert ordered an investigation of the Scott books and the report developed that there was a shortage of $73,000.

Scott was suspected because of his purchase of valuable property here and his lavish expenditure of money. The key to the prosecution was the fact that, while deputy auditor, Scott kept the books of the auditor as well as of the treasurer.

Bondsman of the embezzler, when $50,000 was traced to Scott, became bankrupt in covering the shortage, and it was their friends who insisted upon Scott's return to prison.

Since the parole there has been an uprising in Athens county against Foster, who is at the head of the Republican organization, and L. M. Koons has been nominated as an independent Republican candidate for prosecutor.

For 10 days Athens county politicians have been journeying back and forth, consulting with the state leaders, as it was feared that Governor Harris would be asked to order an investigation that would develop a scandal. Scott's re-arrest will not avert this.

It has come out that Scott's release was railroaded. The application was not referred to any member for investigation according to custom, and neither Prosecutor Foster nor Judge Wood was asked for an opinion concerning the advisability of the parole. Foster insists that he informed Scott that he would resist any such action.

The records show that Scott was paroled within 24 hours after the time prescribed for the publication had elapsed.

The release was just as mysterious as the re-arrest last night, and it is said, clinches the widespread belief here and at Athens that there is some hidden skullduggery behind it all.

"Lefty" Webb celebrated the last game he will pitch for Newark by winning by the score of 5 to 4, in a game characterized by poor and listless playing by both the Stogie Rollers and the Molders. Lima got one run out of her quartet that she was really entitled to, the other three being presented to her by careless, heedless playing. Manager Bill Clymer, of the Columbus team, Third Baseman Frel and Bunk Congleton saw the game, and if they weren't disgusted it wasn't because the teams didn't try hard to make a farce out of it.

The only thing in the entire nine innings that wasn't a farce of mammoth proportions, was the knocking of Charley Pickett from the box. Pickett, the star twirler of the "Lima" delegation, and by many regarded as the best pitcher in the league, was sent in for slab duty, and Clymer, as he sat in the grand stand, had visions of a pitcher of ability, at least he expected a pretty pitchers' battle, but nothing of that nature materialized.

Jackson kept him on the firing line for five innings, during which frames 11 hits were made off his delivery, netting a total of four runs, then he jacked him and substituted Garvey, a big man with little besides a pleasant smile. From him the locals gathered three hits, and but for poor base running, they would have gotten more than the one run that they did. Something was wrong, radically wrong with the Bells bunch Thursday, and it is to be hoped that they have gotten all their listless playing out of their systems.

Fink met a two bagger right on the nose, first heave from the box and on Reiley's sacrifice he went to second. Jackson was walked, and when he attempted to draw Williams' attention by a steal of second he succeeded, for Bob fell into his trap, and when he threw the ball to catch the foxy manager, Fink came home, but Jackson was also safe, and the fans were forced to swallow the double steal.

The count of the callers was duplicated by the Newark squad in their half of the second inning, when with one down Williams rapped out a single. Webb's single sent him to second, and then when Pinkney and McClintock were each passed, Bob came home with the count that tied. The Molders had three good chances to score at early periods of the game with men on third and second, but the necessary hit was not found, or the score would have been more than five.

The visitors sent another runner home in the fourth when Newham rapped out a fluke three bagger that should have been a put out for Smith, only in running the bags a little before. Pop wrenched his leg and could not get under it. Abbott tried hard, but his speed wasn't great enough to take him under the falling globe. Nefau let out a long sacrifice to Snyder and Newham scored.

Not to be outdone the Molders sent their second run across on singles by Snyder, Webb and McClintock, and if a sudden slump hadn't happened in their hitting at just that time, two more runs should have been counted for the locals. In the fifth two more counts were added to the list when Wratten, Williams, Snyder, Webb and Pinkney singled and scored Williams and Snyder. Wratten lost out at second on a little Texas leaguer that no one surrounded.

Just at this time Pickett was given a sudden shove towards the players' bench by the irate Mr. Jackson, and Garvey was substituted. Nothing happened to him until the sixth inning, when singles by Wratten and Williams and a sacrifice to right by Snyder sent Wratten home. Webb rapped out his fourth hit of the game and Williams reached third. Pinkney reached first on an error of Fink, but Williams in trying to get home, was thrown out. Lindsay and Sykes scored for Lima in the eighth, when Winters dropped an easy fly to center. The score:

BAILEY SLAUGHTERED.

Mansfield, Sept. 11—Mansfield and Lancaster again broke even in a double header Thursday. Bailey was hit hard in the first inning of the first game, Lancaster scoring enough runs to win, but held Lancaster safe in the remainder of the game. Bucholz pitched good ball with men on bases in the second game and held Lancaster safe. The scores:

SHINE A SHINE.

Portsmouth .. 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—1 2 1

Snyder sent Wratten home. Webb rapped out his fourth hit of the game and Williams reached third. Pinkney reached first on an error of Fink, but Williams in trying to get home, was thrown out. Lindsay and Sykes scored for Lima in the eighth, when Winters dropped an easy fly to center. The score:

THE TALE OF THOUSANDS

The Scientist and His Great Discovery.

Many things have been advertised in the local papers for a number of months, but nothing has created the talk and enthusiastic praise in this city and vicinity like Root Juice. Most of those who take the remedy a short while can not say too many good things for the scientist and his wonderful health-promoting discovery. While here the scientist said: "The medicine does not cure disease; it simply removes the cause and gives nature a chance. That is why so many people get well after taking the Juice awhile." Many local people permitted their names to be published in this paper because the remedy cured them and they continue to report at the drug store some great good the Juice is doing. It is certainly a great medicine for the stomach, liver and kidneys. Indigestion, constipation, rheumatism, backache, sick headache, nervousness, and other symptoms of a disordered condition of the digestive and secretory organs are soon removed under the Juice treatment. They are pleased to tell about it at the City Drug Store. Root Juice is $1 a bottle.

CLYMER

Disappointed in Work of Pickett and Garvey—Webb's Great Stick Record—Other Notes.

Manager Clymer of the Columbus team, was very much disappointed in the work of both Garvey and Pickett, but he did enjoy seeing Webb work, and in his opinion Toledo has secured a classy southpaw in Newark's side-wheeler.

Wratten came very close to picking a foul off third base fence, but to avoid running into a post he was compelled to stop and the ball dropped safely.

Newham rapped out a very fluky three bagger that either Smith or Abbott should have had.

Webb's batting average was perfect. Four hits out of four times at bat is a very good record for anyone and a pitcher especially.

Each time Snyder got on bases Eells had to run for him, for Lefty's ankle isn't strong enough to stand the base running.

Good bye, Webb, old boy, we're sorry to see you go, but here's to your success as a teacher.

Manager Tim Flood of Mansfield, is suffering with a bruised foot and is unable to run. It also interferes with Portsmouth comes tomorrow for one game Saturday and two Sunday. The Night Riders close the present season here. We lost the opening game—wonder if we can take the closing one?

The Molders ought to close in the 500 class at least, even if they are fifth in the race.

The Patterson baseball team challenges the Hermann team to a game of ball at the earliest possible date. The Hermann's if they accept, will answer through the columns of this paper.

Meehan, in the game between Mansfield and Lancaster, got four hits out of five times at bat.

Indianapolis has beaten Toledo but once on its own field this season, while the Mud Hens have won seven games on the Hoosier lot.

A large number of ladies were out to attend their last free game of the season yesterday.

The Molders lined up in front of the grand stand before the game and had their pictures taken with Manager Eells and Business Manager Maurath.

The Old Homestead ball team will play the Clay Lick team at that village Sunday. Cars to there will leave Newark at 2 o'clock.

LOST TITLE AS CHAMPION RIDER

(Communicated.)

Dad made up his mind one day last week that he would go to the county town on business but on looking around he saw that the horses were all busy in field work and the only thing to fall back on was the old donkey. The Jack had thrown all the boys on the farm, but pap thought he could ride anything that wore hair, including old Jack, so looking over the garden fence he spied the old fellow and said to him: Jack I am going to ride you to town today. Jack simply winked one eye, shook his head and kept on browsing. Dad got the saddle and bridle on old Jack with some considerable trouble and then mounted and then the circus commenced. Around and round the yard they went at a one minute gait, one second Jack's fore-feet were up in the air ten feet and the next second his hind feet were in the air about the same distance. Dad hung on like grim death and at last the Jack quieted down and there dad sat conqueror at least for the time being. Dad swore and said to Jack didn't I say I was going to ride you today, but Jack said nothing but shook his head and winked his left eye as much as to say the day ain't yet over. Dad got along first rate until they got near the cross roads where there was a grocery and drug store, when old Jack thought he would have some more fun with Pap for in an instant his hind legs were up in the air several feet and the next moment his forelegs went up into the air and down he came stiff legged, falling on his knees, and Dad doing the flying act over his head landing ten feet away in the dust three inches deep. The Jack's knees were so badly hurt that he could hardly get up and Dad was in about the same condition. Dad looked at his sad bedraggled fix and then turned and met the gaze of old Jack with a cussword, but Jack simply winked that left eye and shook his head as much as to say didn't I tell you so. Dad picked himself up and upon examination found he had two badly scratched shins, and old Jack had both knee-caps knocked off. The druggist charged him $2.00 for attending to his shins and the veterinary surgeon charged him $1.00 for putting Jack's knee-caps in proper condition. In starting back home he looked around at the donkey every little while and uttered a curse word, and at last said to Jack which of us is the biggest jackass, but Jack said nothing but winked both eyes and nodded his head as much as to say I think we are both jackasses. The funny part of the whole thing was to see lame Jack back home and every few yards on the way dad would turn around and let out an oath at the old donkey, but Jack didn't mind it but simply winked his left eye and shook his head every time the old man would take one of these spells. Dad tried his best to keep this fiasco a secret, but the druggist and the veterinary surgeon gave it away and it completely spoiled Dad's title to being champion jackass rider of this section of the country.

JERUSALEM JUDGED

By the Rev. J. N. Scholes, Pastor of Central Church of Christ.

O Jerusalem! Jerusalem! walled city midst the hills, Jehovah's seat of earthly power who worketh where He wills, Temple and sanctified and cleansed for service pure and sweet, Butressed in hills and mountains that make defense complete—Thy sun-kissed days, thy starlit nights, Brims full thy heart with earth's delights. If only these had favored thee it still would be thy pride, Among thy Jewish sisters to be taken for the Bride.

But prophets, kings and priests are thine—and have been thine of old. Prophets who spake for God on high—His wondrous plans foretold; Kings both proud and humble who sat upon thy throne,

In wisdom and in weakness wielding scepters not their own; Priests with altar offerings whose wounds and crimson flood Called for One who comes from Boraiah with His garments dipped in blood.

"O Jerusalem! Jerusalem!" He weepeth at thy gate—

"How oft would I have gathered thee—but now, alas, too late!"

"Thou didst not heed—thou wouldst not know thy day of visitation."

"This swiftly passing age shall see thy future desolation."

Hast thou no throne but Calvary for him who came to save? No temple for the King of Kings—no place but in the grave? The cross! the skull! Golgotha! are these the best ye bring? And are ye come red handed to offer up your king?

O Jerusalem! Jerusalem! fit symbol is thy fall. Of all who crucify the Christ beyond the city wall.

Our temples too, shall perish—our walls be broken down.

Who unto Him still offer the cross and thorny crown.

O Jerusalem! Jerusalem! thy sins we still repeat.

In holier light we still invite a judgment more complete.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE ORPHIUM.

The change in the Orphium bill on Thursday evening brought with it that famous funny minstrel man, Jimmy Wall, with a monologue that is great.

JIMMIE WALL,
The famous minstrel, at the Orphium this week.

Funny songs were always Mr. Wall's long suit and he has a corner on fun in the song "If There Weren't Any Women in the World." His jokes are all clever and original and lovers of fun should not miss seeing him.

Adelaide Walters introduces the bill with a neat little singing and dancing act, playing her own piano accompaniment. A clever "Dago" character turn adds to her act. McCune and Grant's acrobatic act is very clever. The male member of the team performs some new and daring feats on the horizontal bar and exhibits dexterity as a tumbler. Walter and Levellyn have an act that might be made more popular in several ways. In the first place it contains a little too much of nothing. Walters has some good comedy mixed with the bad, while the female member of the team has a good voice.

Mr. Warthen is still singing "Good-bye, Sweetheart, Good-bye," and singing it nicely, and the animated pictures for the second half of this week are excellent. E. B. H.

PICTURES WILL STAY.

The Auditorium theater will offer attractions six nights a week throughout the entire season.

This announcement comes direct from the manager and is authentic. Every night but Sunday there will be some form of amusement to be had at the Auditorium, at which time Chas. Smith's complete ten piece orchestra, which has been engaged for the season, will furnish music, while the entire staff of house employees will be on duty every evening.

On nights when there is no traveling attraction booked, the moving pictures, illustrated songs and one or more novelty acts will be presented. Regular seats will be secured for these attractions at the prices that prevailed during the summer.

This season the management states, reserved seats to all performances will be designated by dated seat coupons. Heretofore the coupons have been numbered only. The advantage of the dated coupon plan is evident. Purchasers of seats have frequently found that they have secured seats for some performance other than the one they wished to attend. This will all be avoided and every coupon will contain the date of the performance and matinee and night shows will be designated.

The announcement of this intention of the Auditorium management will doubtless be appreciated by Newark people. It is understood that the Orphium theater will change bills once a week, as in the far part of last season. In that case local amusement lovers will be able to find something new in the moving picture and vaudeville line for nearly every evening of the week by dividing their visits among the theaters introducing vaudeville acts.

The Nipper Boyer Stock company and the old Americans will be seen at the Auditorium this season. The dates here will be the first full weeks of February and March. The Americans got in a for the first engagement. We are promised an entirely new repertoire of light comedy bill for the Nipper Boyer company, including a sufficient amount of real melodrama. The Americans are putting on a more serious class of pro-

The story of Lott's Blair Parker's "Under Southern Skies" is a very strong and interesting one, and is one that is peculiarly southern in theme and atmosphere. The characters are distinct, types of southern people true to life in speech and dress. It is one of the biggest theatrical successes of recent years, and the scenes and characters are all typical of the Sunny South. Among other attractive features the one that seems to afford the greatest amusement are the Hallow-Gen games and tricks that have never been shown before in any other play.
